

The Seed: Collected Plays

Four real-life Victorian adventurers had a secret quest: to find a long-lost seed known as the Chinese Gold. Inspired by the true stories of their adventures, these four plays show their incredible journeys through thousands of miles of life-threatening terrain, encountering obstacles and enemies worthy of Indiana Jones. The plays were originally staged in four gardens that were largely created by these great plant hunters. Part of the London 2012 Cultural Olympiad, the theatrical stories were complemented by a live online story that unfolded over ten weeks, concluding with the discovery of the seed itself (encased in gold) by one lucky modern-day hunter. As well as the full play texts, this book contains a summary of that online adventure, published for the first time.
